

ABSTRACT

An induction heat fixing device has coil portions with electric wires wound around the outer surface of a cylindrical main bobbin, grooves and flanges formed at both ends of the main bobbin.

- 5 Further, plural ribs are formed in the main bobbin. The main bobbin is put into a holder with these ribs brought in contact with the holder.